ADGP Bhaskar Rao inspects security at KRS, Airport

'Any security lapse will be treated as serious offence'

ADGP Bhaskar Rao during his inspection at KRS dam yesterday.

Mysuru, Sept.17 (RK&SSV)- Additional Director General of Police (ADGP-Internal Security Division) Bhaskar Rao inspected security arrangements at Mysore Airport in Mandakalli and also at Krishna Raja Sagar (KRS) Dam in Srirangapatna taluk of Mandya district yesterday.

He arrived at the Airport at around 11.30 am and inspected security provided by 63 personnel of Karnataka Industrial Security Force (KISF). Interacting with them, Rao said with the resumption of inter-State and intra-State flights, responsibility on them has increased.

"You must make routine inspection of the whole area of the Airport. Protruding tree branches all along the compound wall should be trimmed and shrubs must be cleared as wild growth will attract wild animals and reptiles. With the steady flow of air passengers, you must be extra vigilant and must coordinate with Mysuru City and District Police. Information exchange and coordination becomes crucial here," he told officers and personnel.

Later, the ADGP visited KRS Dam, Brindavan Gardens and interacted with over 250 KISF personnel who are guarding the entire area 24X7. The team is led by six Inspectors and ten Sub-Inspectors. Besides, personnel from local KRS Police Station are also assisting in security duty.

Tourist footfall amid COVID to Mysore Palace brings cheer

10,537 tourists visit in August, 13,091 till Sept. 14; but only a handful of foreign nationals

Mysuru, Sept.17 (SSV)- Despite many challenges surrounding inter-State travel amidst COVID contagion, the Mysore Palace has seen a big jump in tourist footfall since last month. This has brought cheers to tourism stakeholders who were worried about the sagging industry picking up after over six months of inactivity and also under the constant threat of virus.

The Palace had remained shut for over 70-80 days due to lockdown and even when the rules were relaxed, tourism was given the last preference because once the tourist places are open, people would naturally crowd the places, increasing the risk.

Subsequently, the Union Government announced some relaxations including opening up of a few places of tourism to improve economy. Accordingly, the Mysore Palace and Sri Chamarajendra Zoological Gardens were allowed to open but with strict guidelines and social distancing measures.

But the Palace and Zoo received lukewarm response from tourists. In initial days, hardly 25-30 domestic tourists came to see the Palace.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

It is the world's biggest economy, technological leader and leading military power, but paradoxically, the prevailing sentiment in the United States in the run-up to the November 3 Presidential election is fear. President Donald Trump emphasises the fear of China, of mob violence, of socialism, while the rival Biden/Harris Democratic camp stoke fears of a flailing economy, racial tension, unchecked COVID-19, a stolen election with foreign interference by the usual suspects, and Trump's refusal to exit quietly. A further danger to the transfer of power exists if Trump were to lose the election by a huge margin in both the Electoral College and the popular vote, and if his manoeuvres fail to subvert the result. Such a scenario suggests that the outgoing President will, in the time between November and the January inauguration of his successor, use his position to make as much money from his position as possible, travel widely abroad to damage the reputation of the incoming administration among foreign leaders, prevail on the FBI to deny or delay the necessary clearances to incoming officials, and refuse to participate in any formal or informal transition briefings.— Krishnan Srinivasan in Deccan Herald

Saint Petersburg: Inspired by a challenge, a Russian woman using various household items and her own makeup skills is recreating over 100 classic paintings to great effect. Back in late March, Saint Petersburg-based art lover Liza Yukhnyova accepted the Getty Museum's #gettychallenge as a fun way to pass the time during quarantine, she got so much into it that she continued to recreate famous paintings long after the lockdown ended.

While most people were content recreating just one famous artwork, Yukhnyova set a goal for herself to replicate a painting a day for 30 days, but she is currently on day 142 and has no plans to stop anytime soon.

MCC house tax:
Notice to tax paid?

Sir,

This has reference to the news item "Tax defaulters warned of property seizure" (SOM dated Sept.2). While it is gratifying to note that MCC is taking steps to recover the house tax by issuing notices to defaulters, it has also issued notice to the tax paid already. I am a prompt tax-payer for the last 30 years. I have paid my house tax for the year on 21.5.2020 and I hold the challan and tax receipt issued by MCC. I am of the opinion that MCC does not have a system of posting credits to the tax-payers account after immediately the tax is paid by the party.

They should have a system of tallying recording at periodical intervals and if this done, omissions/ mistakes will not happen.

I therefore request the MCC authorities to take note of this and issue notices to defaulters only, in future.

A nonagenarian tax-payer's appeal to MCC Comr.

Sir,

The MCC Commissioner has been issuing ultimatums that if property tax is not paid before Oct. 31, 2020, the property will be seized. He is quite right in expecting taxes to be paid in time, for the Corporation to function normally.

I am a 90-year-old person. I have duly paid my property tax for 2019-20. If I go to the Corporation Office (near All India Radio) in Yadavagiri to pay my property tax for 2020-21, will the Commissioner guarantee that I will not catch COVID-19 from anyone in his office or from any member of the public who may be present there to pay tax like me ?

It is being emphasised by the Government from the very beginning that elderly people have to be extra cautious, because the chances of fatality is high among them.

Why not the Commissioner depute the concerned Revenue Inspector to my house, for collecting the tax?

Corona forces jobless to become footpath vendors

By S.B. Devaraj

Mysuru, Sept. 17- Corona has thrown out of gear for thousands of families. The closure of factories, shops and commercial establishments has thrown out of jobs. Now, they are into other professions to eke out their livelihood.

Among them, some have taken to vending fruits, vegetables and other items on footpaths. Their lives have not changed despite unlock 4.0. Persons driving auto-rickshaws, taxi and tongas are now into selling fruits and vegetables on the footpaths on thoroughfares, circles and traffic junctions to earn whatever little they could to pay towards house rent or school fee of their kids.

The number of footpath vendors has gone up considerably across the city indicating prevailing situation post unlock 4.0. While the shops, business establishments and malls are recording a minimum footfall, the number of buyers on footpath has increased.

People get everything on the streets like flowers, fruits, vegetables, ready-made gardens, sandals, plastic items, electronic items and bedspread that too at low price when compared to the shops.

A few have converted their four-wheelers and three-wheeler vehicles into the mobile canteens. They are stationed near the crowded places to cater to the hungry pangs of poor and daily wage workers. But not many people are coming to the mobile canteens following the spike in Corona positive cases in the city.

Understanding the plight of jobless people, the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) is not disturbing the footpath vendors for a time-being till the economy is improved. But, what they wanted from those vendors is to keep the surroundings clean and strictly adhere to safety guidelines.

Veena was driving autorickshaw for almost 17 years. But now she sells groundnut on Vinoba Road near Metropole Circle. “Corona has changed my life. Passengers are not ready to board autorickshaw. So, I am forced to sell groundnut.”

Babu and his son, Pavan, residents of Sunnadakeri, were running tonga till the February. However, COVID-19 forced them to change their profession to selling prawns and fish on Thyagaraja Road. “We were jobless for almost four months. With no tourist flow into the city, most of the tongawallas are now doing different jobs. We need money to pay house rent and run family”, he added.

CESC's underground cabling works resume

Cable-laying in full swing at Jodi Thenginamara Road, Medar Block, Yadavagiri and Manjunathapura

Mysuru, Sept. 17 (RK&KS)- The Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation (CESC) that has taken up a massive project of converting overhead power lines into underground power cables has completed 50 percent of first phase of works. At present, the project is being implemented in N.R. Sub-Division. The first phase is estimated to cost the Corporation Rs. 300 crore.

It is an approximate Rs. 600 crore project being undertaken by the State Energy Department and CESC, Asian Fab Tec Limited (AFTL), Larsen & Toubro (L&T) are the implementing and supervising authorities.

The CESC has chosen to lay underground cables to prevent any damages caused to overhead power lines due to trees falling during rains and gusty winds. The first phase of the project covers over 500 kilometres of areas and the major part of the work is toad drilling and digging in four sub-divisions — Hootagalli, N.R. Mohalla, Kuvempunagar and City Centre.

Now digging and cable-laying works are under progress in the surroundings of Jodi Thenginamara Road, Medar Block, Yadavagiri and Manjunathapura. N.R. Sub-Division (UGC Project), CESC Executive Engineer Doddamani is in charge of the works and CESC Assistant Executive Engineer Surendra is supervising the works.

Combination of wires

The wires are a combination of High Tension (HT) 11 KV line and Low Tension (LT) line that supplies power to houses. The LT line carries 440 volts of power and as part of the works, feeder Pillar Boxes are installed on the roadsides and these boxes will supply power to 8 to 9 houses. Each box has control points and if there is a problem in the main 11 KV line, the Control Point next to the line trips and the issue is identified and set right.

Overhead cables hanging precariously low pose grave threat to residents and livestock. Many people have already died after being electrocuted by suspended high-tension wires. Underground cables eliminate this threat. Though underground cable project is more expensive than aerial bunching of cables, underground cables will help improve reliability in power supply, reduce the number of accidents caused by overhead wires, and improve the aesthetics of the city," CESC officials said.

Stage-by-stage process

CESC had started the massive project in two phases last year. The works were taken up in a stage-by-stage process with the focus on the Central Zone in the Central Business District — Mysore Palace, Rama Vilas Road, Hardinge Circle, City and Sub-urban Bus Stations, Double Road, K.R. Circle, D. Devaraj Urs Road, Doddakere Maidan, Deputy Commissioner's Office, Zilla Panchayat Office and surrounding areas.

After the road is drilled by Horizontal Direction and Drilling Machine and pits are dug up manually, the power cables are laid and drawn from one end to another. From here, connections are provided to a cluster of homes and shops in any given area, engineers explained.

The progress of the cable-laying works came to a standstill due to COVID-19-induced lockdown for over five months. CESC had already paid Rs. 14 crore to the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) to dig parts of the road to lay the cables.

Slum Board asks hut dwellers to vacate

Mysuru, Sept.17- As several beneficiaries of Government Housing schemes such as HUDCO, VAMBAY, SCP, JnNURM, BSUP etc., are found to be still living in huts and sheds constructed on Government lands (land belonging to MCC, MUDA etc.) and as well as private lands, after letting out their sanctioned houses on rent or lease to others, the Karnataka Slum Development Board has asked such hut and shed dwellers to vacate immediately.

In a press release, the Board said that it has come to its notice that several beneficiaries of Government Housing schemes have rented or leased out or sold their allotted houses. The Board has built houses for slum dwellers and all the beneficiaries living in huts or sheds constructed on Government land, should voluntarily vacate them in a week. Or else, the Board will take measures for evacuating the sheds, in which the Housing beneficiaries are found to be still living.

This kind of response was expected as the country was seeing an unprecedented spike in virus infection. The footfalls gradually improved from two digits to four digits, thus bringing smile on the faces of authorities and stakeholders.

Deputy Director of Mysore Palace Board T.S. Subramanya told Star of Mysore that initially people were hesitant to come out of houses fearing the pandemic. As the economy slowly opened up, people started moving out of their home towns by taking all precautionary measures.

"While over 2,012 tourists visited the Palace in June, it plummeted to 725 in July due to sudden increase in COVID-positive cases. However, the total number of tourists visiting the Palace touched 10,537 in August. In current month (September), already 13,091 tourists have visited the Palace till Sept. 14. This has come as a breather for everyone as tourism is slowly picking up in city," he said.

Not much foreign tourists are coming to the Palace due to the virus threat and also due to a ban on international travel. In August, only 22 foreign nationals visited the Palace when compared to a minimum of 1,000 during normal days.

"This month too, only 13 foreign tourists have come till Sept. 14. We are hoping for the pandemic to end soon so that the tourism industry picks up in Mysuru as it is a livelihood to hundreds of families, directly or indirectly," he added.

Mysuru alone attracts close to 35 to 40 lakh tourists a year. Tourism and hospitality is the main industry of Mysuru and surrounding areas as there are not many manufacturing and service industries around. The economy is either directly or indirectly related to tourism and hospitality and the sector employs over 25,000 persons.

Visit to the Palace no doubt includes safety protocols. "We have taken all precautions like compulsory safe distancing, face masks, thermal scanning and hand sanitisers for each and every visitor. Sanitisation is done at regular intervals inside the Palace to make the visit safe for tourists, Subramanya said.

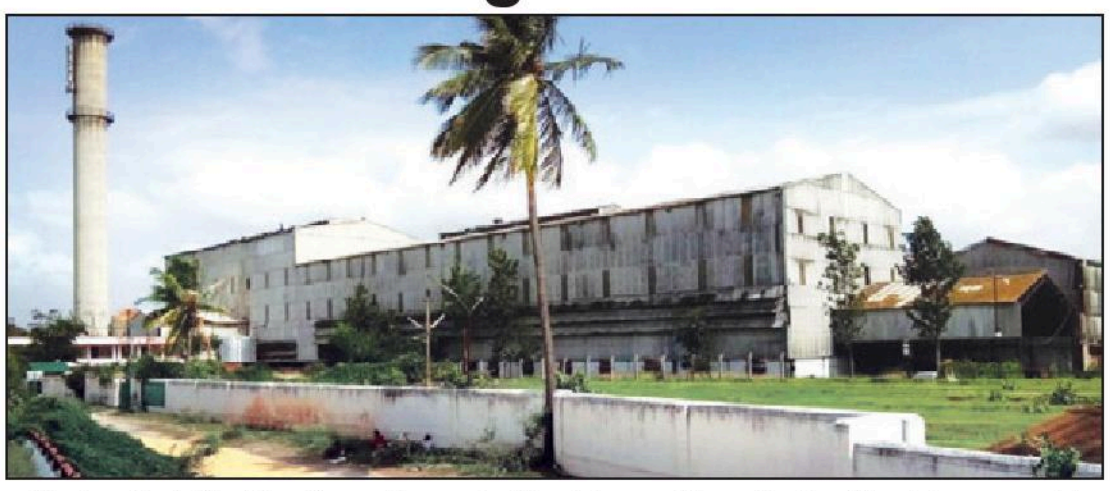
Pandavapura Sugar Factory to start crushing from tomorrow



Murugesh Nirani

Mandya, Sept.17- After five years of shut down, the Pandavapura Sahakara Sakkare Kharkhane (PSSK), more popularly known as Pandavapura Sugar Factory will start crushing sugarcane from tomorrow (Sept.18), much to the relief of thousands of farmers of the region.

After the factory, which was run under the co-operative sector shut down over five years ago due to mounting losses, the Government had invited tenders for running the Factory. Subsequently, Bagalkot-based Nirani Sugars, owned by Bilgi BJP MLA Murugesh Nirani, bagged the tender by successfully bidding (Rs. 405 crore) for running the factory on a 40-year lease.

After bagging the tender, Nirani Sugars (MRN Group) made necessary preparations to restart the factory, which was formally inaugurated on Aug.11, 2020 marking Krishnajanmashtami and also the birthday of Murugesh Nirani, who is also a former Minister.

After taking over the factory on lease, Murugesh Nirani planned to enhance the crushing capacity from the existing 3,500 tonnes per day to 5,000 tonnes and the mechanical works in this regard were done at a brisk pace.

Now, with all necessary preparations, the decades-old factory is all set to start cane crushing from tomorrow, much to the delight of farmers, who were disappointed over the state of this prestigious factory for years, until Nirani took it over a couple of months ago.

The factory has already set aside Rs.6 crore for payment of wage dues to employees. The services of all employees who were working at the factory when it was shut down, has been continued.

The factory has also promised that it will make payment as per FRP (Fair and Remunerative Price) to farmers within 15 days of cane supplies and that all employees will be paid salary in the first week of every month.

Decoding Mythology

Sarna, the Harappan Tree Goddess

One of the things in the about-4,000-year-old Harappan seals is the value placed on trees. There is the peepal tree and the babool (acacia) tree that have been identified. The peepal tree is identified by its characteristic wide tapering leaves. The babool tree is identified by its peculiar branch patterns and its thorns. It is clear that these two plants were important to the Harappan civilisation.

There are images of these trees located within an enclosure and worshipped. There are images of Goddesses emerging from these trees. There are images of men with plumes or twigs in their head. Some are wearing bison horns, venerating the tree Goddess. They are making offerings to her. The offerings sometimes appear as sacrifices to her (either animal or human, we cannot be sure). But, what is clear is that trees were revered in the Harappan civilisation.

One seal shows the reason why this may be important. There is an image of a tiger looking back at a man who is seated on top of a tree. So, by hiding on top of the tree, the man saves himself from the tiger. This could be the reason why the tree, or the sacred orchard of thorny trees, then become the refuge of man from the wild tiger. Therefore, it is associated with the mother Goddess.

This belief of sacred groves and their branches and thorns protecting humans from wild animals is featured a lot in contemporary tribal mythology too. Amongst Mundas, there is a story of a man who hid in a grove and was saved from a lion. The practice of worshipping trees continues across India in many communities even today.

Many tribes have sacred groves with trees like the Sal, the Mahua, the Neem and the Banyan that no one is allowed to encroach. The logical explanation for the existence of these sacred groves is that they maintained the biodiversity of the land. The farming communities do not encroach on this particular stretch of property. The sacred grove is called Sarna-sthals among Bhils.

It is said that the Goddess resides on sacred trees, or in sacred orchards, and plays on the swing with her companions. Men who enter this grove, become women. Male animals became female animals. A horse turns into a mare; a lion into a lioness. Therefore, one must stay away from it.

Many communities in Jharkhand, for example, are demanding that "Sarnaism" or worship of trees and sacred groves be distinguished from the overarching all-absorbing framework of Hinduism.

Vedic scriptures also refer to the trees from the Indian subcontinent such as the peepal tree, the banyan tree and the babool tree. This is a reminder that the Vedic hymns were composed in India. Since the culture came after the collapse of the Harappan civilisation, it shows the hymns were the result of the mixing of immigrating Indo-Aryans with residents of the earlier Harappan cities. Therefore, memories of Harappa are bound to be located in the Vedic hymns. This memory manifests in the celebration of native flora.

Mother and son back home

after pan-India temple run on scooter

Corporate team leader becomes spiritually inclined after 56,522-km journey

By M.B. Pavan Murthy

Krishna Kumar with his mother Choodarathna.

Mysuru, Sept. 17- After a two-year-eight-month pan-India temple run on a scooter and covering 56,522 kilometres through four countries — Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh and Myanmar — with his 70-year-old mother Choodarathna, city's Dakshinamurthy Krishna Kumar has returned home in Bogadi yesterday afternoon. The mother and son duo started their journey on Jan. 16, 2018.

While his mother, as per her desire, has seen almost all important temples spread across India and neighbouring countries, Dakshinamurthy Krishna Kumar, once a corporate team leader at a private company in Bengaluru, has become spiritually inclined and wants to spend the rest of his life preaching and guiding the youth in the path of spirituality and nationalism.

Their vehicle, a 2000 model Bajaj Chetak scooter (KA-09 X-6143), gifted by Krishna Kumar's late father in 2001, will remain as a prized possession as without the vehicle, the duo could not have even imagined their spiritual sojourn. Star of Mysore had published a feature on the mother-son duo on May 28 this year under the title "Man from Mysuru, his mom travel 56,027 kms on a 20-year-old scooter."

Krishna Kumar, who calls this pilgrimage as Mathru Seva Sankalpa Yatra, will convert his house at Bogadi into a 'Gnana Vikasa Kendra' and involve himself in social service, spiritual activities and train the youth in nationalism. "This Akhanda Bharat journey has made me a spiritual person now. I love this beautiful country and would like to dedicate my life to the service of the nation. Today's youth need guidance and I will associate myself with spiritual and moral organisations and provide the needed guidance to youth," he told Star of Mysore.

Journey experiences

A bachelor, Krishna Kumar plans to remain so. "I cannot rule out the possibility of my second phase of the yatra," he says, displaying enthusiasm. "Many temples, ashrams and monasteries have taught me the values of Tapasya, Tyaga and Dharma. I am not planning to keep the journey experiences to myself. I want to share with the youth so that they get motivated to serve this great country," he reveals.

Before starting the journey in January 2018, Krishna Kumar first customised his scooter and made his elderly mother sit pillion in a manner to immunise her from travel fatigue. "We went straight to Chamundeshwari Temple atop the Chamundi Hill and performed a puja before starting our journey. Not even once they had to face any hardship in India or on foreign soil. I experienced a lot of humanity throughout my journey," he explains.

Comfort and spirituality

When asked about the expenses he incurred during the journey, Krishan Kumar says, "I have not calculated the exact amount of money that I have spent for this yatra with my mother. I might have spent nearly Rs. 6 lakh and 80,000 out of my savings."

It is not easy for an elderly person to sit on a scooter even up to a short distance. Still, his mother Choodarathna managed to travel 56,522 kilometres on this old two-wheeler. "I did not face any problem as the scoter seat was customised to increase comfort. More than comfort, the quest for spirituality and my strong desire to see famous temples of India has been fulfilled by my son. I am gifted to have such a son," she says.

Discipline in food

Both Krishna Kumar and Choodarathna never faced any health issues throughout their journey. "We only consumed prasadam that is distributed at temples and ashrams and that too only twice a day. We never ate in hotels. This discipline helped us. The only thing we had to do is change tyres of the scooter eight times and fix a couple of punctures," he reveals.

The incredible story of Dakshinamurthy Krishna Kumar taking his aged mother on a nation-wide pilgrimage on a scooter caught the attention of Anand Mahindra, the Chairman of Mahindra Group who promised to gift a Mahindra KUV 100 NXT. "Very soon, the vehicle will reach Mysuru and I am in touch with Mahindra Company officials," he says.

WORD OF THE DAY

Bunkum

Pronunciation: BUNG-kum.
Meaning: Insincere or foolish talk : nonsense.
Origin: Some words in the English language have more colorful histories than others, but in the case of bunkum, you could almost say it was an act of Congress that brought the word into being. Back in 1820 Felix Walker, who represented Buncombe County, North Carolina, in the U.S. House of Representatives, was determined that his voice be heard on his constituents' behalf, even though the matter up for debate was irrelevant to Walker's district and he had little to contribute. To the exasperation of his colleagues, Walker insisted on delivering a long and wearisome "speech for Buncombe." His persistent—if insignificant—harangue made buncombe (later respelled bunkum) a synonym for meaningless political claptrap and later for any kind of nonsense.
Example: I hesitated to voice my opinions, fearful that my companions would deride my views as bunkum.

THE ODD WORD

Baedeker

Guide book.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Beating a dead horse

Meaning: To bring up a previously settled issue. Any further discussion on it might be seen as pointless because the issue was already talked about before.
Origin: There are several phrases and sayings in use today that originated from horse racing. It is possible that this one also comes from it. How so? Well, during a horse race, a jockey usually has access to a riding crop, which kind of looks like a miniature whip. The jockey uses the riding crop to hit or "beat" the horse (typically on the thigh, I believe) for purpose of getting them to run faster. While there is controversy involved with how horses are treated during races, there is a purpose to "beating" a horse during this activity—more speed. However, what would be the point of beating a dead horse? There wouldn't be one; it'd be pointless! So while beating a living horse serves a purpose, beating a dead one would be futile.
Anyways, this saying dates back to at least the year 1859. A form of it makes an appearance in the London newspaper Watchman And Wesleyan Advertiser. There's an article from the newspaper that reads:
"It was notorious that Mr.Bright was dissatisfied with his winter reform campaign and rumor said that he had given up his effort with the exclamation that it was like flogging a dead horse."

In a press release, Addanda C. Cariappa, Director, Rangayana, Mysuru, has said: "Padma Shri B.V. Karanth was a legendary director who gave theatre music a midas touch through his theatre productions. He provided the much needed fresh perspective and added great value to Kannada theatre when it was moving past its old glory. He brought the colourful and technical grandiosity to productions through music and dance accompaniments and lifted the experience of theatre music by way of creating a magical world on stage.

"He enhanced the value of Indian theatre through his tenure as the Director of National School of Drama (NSD) and Director of Bharat Bhavan - Rang Mandal in Bhopal, and as the Founder-Director of Nataka Karnataka Rangayana, started by the Government of Karnataka.

"He liberated himself from the shackles of ideologies to only build theatre. His most famous statements include words should be like songs, and songs must be like speech; music knows no religion and its well par all faiths, theatre music does not need punditry; it only needs an instinct of rhythm melody and voice. With his perspective, he introduced a new language of music into Indian theatre.

"His birth anniversary is also the day when all the artistes of Kannada theatre need to commemorate his significant contribution to Indian theatre music. On this occasion, Rangayana Mysuru has planned to announce Sept. 19 as 'Bharatiya Theatre Music Day.'

"On the opening year of this celebration — 19.9.2020 — renowned, senior and accomplished music director of legendary Gubbi Company Paramasivan will make the official announcement at Rangayana Mysuru," the release added.

Rangayana Director has further requested all the Government and allied theatre institutions, institutions of theatre education, private theatre organisations and theatre enthusiasts to celebrate Sept. 19 as 'Bharatiya Theatre Music Day' in the coming years.
